CINEMA

Dear Mr Vogel,

The delay in the publication of Vol. 6, No.1 resulted from an editorial transition. Cinema is by and large a one-man show, and intervals between issues may vary. Consequently, Cinema is sold by issue not by season.

Vol 6, No.1., follows Vol 5, No. 4. Your subscription is not listed in our files, and I assume it has expired. Failure to notify you of this fact may, again, have resulted from the editorial changeover.

Please accept the enclosed Vol. 6, No. 1 as a complimentary copy. No bill will follow. If you would like to resubscribe, a return evelope is included in the magazine. We would be happy to include, as part of your subscription, any of the recent back issues you may have not received. (The price, therefore, would be the same as the subscription price for forthcomming issues.) Please include check or money order with purchase.

best,

Paul Schrader

Gentlemen:

For some reason I have not been receiving your magazine. If my subscription expired, you should have sent me a renewal notice; in any case, I wish to receive it uninterrupted and, if necessary, retroactively. The magazines should be sent to my home address: 15 Washington Place, New York, N. Y. 10003.

At this time I am most interested in receiving, by return first class, air mail, a copy of the issue in which the article on videotape cassettes appeared. Please bill me.

Sincerely,

GROVE PRESS
